Hakirah, The Flatbush Journal of Jewish Law and Thought, is filled with original, interesting, well-researched and well-organized articles that provide new or more profound insights into areas of Jewish law (halakhah) and thought (hashkafah.)

Each issue is eagerly anticipated by thousands of readers across the United States and around the world, who are interested in intellectual pursuit and spiritual growth, and a forum for discussion of Jewish law and thought relevant to the Jewish community from the perspective of careful analysis of the primary Torah sources.

Hakirah is published twice a year, and contains approximately 10 articles in English and 2 in Hebrew. Readers are encouraged to comment on the articles and considerable space is allocated to readers' comments and authors' responses.

A resounding success in the local, national and international Jewish community for the last nine years, Hakirah's strong subscriber base is an impressive audience worth engaging.
